Welcome to the NBAA (National Business Aviation Association) Annual Trade Show!

Excitement filled the air as Orlando was the site for this years incredible exposition. The show was held September 10-12 and filled the Orlando Convention Center to capacity with an array of aviation exhibits that would bring any aviation enthusiast to their knees with joy.

The FAA had nine booths filled with a generous amount of information and plenty of help to answer any question you might have. Bill Hoenstine, Obie Young and Ben Coleman were on hand at the booths along with the many other FAA folks from Washington and around the country.

It was a great opportunity for the Production Studio to be represented. Two cases of the studio calendar brochures were distributed along with the 2003 schedule posters to FBO representatives attending the show.

The conference was also host to numerous aviation seminars and programs throughout the three days as well as a static display held at Orlando Executive Airport.

Obie II and Jeanie were on hand to take some great video footage and we took plenty of photos. Take a walk through the exhibits for some show highlights.
